solidary economy

The rescue of the human being is carried through by a new form of insertion in the work market, with the participation in the decisions of the association and for the increase of its sociability.

The rescue of the nature, better saying, the conservation of the remaining nature, can be put in practical with the implementation of ecologically responsible enterprises for the net of solidary social-economy, as well as, for initiatives of ambient education.

The rescue of the primordial function of the currency becomes fulfilled for the creation of a proper currency that has the capacity to fructify economic and social bonds, therefore in the perspective solidary these "things" is not broken up.
